

CCI Edits Checker Now Offers 2 Data Entry Methods

September 5, 2012

The CCI Edits Checker now lets you choose whether you want to enter codes using an automated-tabbed individual code entry method or a single comma-separated code box. Pick your method and mark it as your default. Then, you'll always have your preferred entry method ready to go.

The SuperCoder development team changed the method to the single box style based on large group requests. After many loyal customers asked for the tab format back, we've reintroduced the original method in a customizable manner that meets both groups' needs.

Thanks again to the many clients who give us feedback to improve the site. Keep sending it to customerservice@supercoder.com.
